Mr Jan Petter article covers the requirements of the mandatory assignment. The scenario is easy to follow as the author provides a good description and supplements with a excellent figure of the overall process. Personally I would prefer that the author used a code listning, rather than using natural language to explain his program, but he manages to get his point across. Mr Jan Petter also elegantly describes why the potential race conditions would violate a security goal, and provides solution two both off his race conditions. I would recommend the author to reflect more on his solutions. And finally I am proud to say that Mr Jan Petter is excellent at using sources.
