Review of: 01_120444_Torgersen
By Daniel Moen Antonsen

The article by Torgersen was to me simple and on to the point. As a third year student with no experience in Solaris, I had no issues following what was described but I feel however that the workspace illustration could be explained a bit further as to how the different labels work and function together. Furthermore, the author did not clearly state whether it is possible to invoke a trusted path from the user side or if this was soely up the operating system.

As far as Solaris goes, I found the sources to be relevant but I couldn't find any for Windows, nor the picture as introduced in the article.

Grade: Pass